7th INEBRIA Conference
Brief interventions on alcohol
Advances in research and practice
9th – 10th September 2010
Gothenburg, Sweden

The 7th annual INEBRIA conference will take place at Scandic Opalen on 9th – 10th September 2010.

Organizing committee:

- Fredrik Spak, chair, associate professor of social medicine, Sahlgren Academy, University of Gothenburg.
- Preben Bendtsen, professor of social medicine, Linköping University
- Karin Mossberg, conference secretary, Sahlgren Academy, University of Gothenburg.
- Hanna Reinholdz, junior research associate, Sahlgren Academy, University of Gothenburg.

Conference programme:

The conference aims to present new ground in theory, research and implementation of early intervention and brief intervention (EIBI) for alcohol use disorders and risky drinking. The effectiveness of SBI (screening and brief intervention) in primary health care is well established and evidence for its effectiveness in other settings is promising. At the same time, significant advances in the practical implementation of EIBI are being made in various parts of the world. However, other possibilities of EIBI are under-utilised in settings such as mother health care, child health care, the social sector etc. Some geographical areas such as the Nordic countries and Catalonia have proceeded from implementation of EIBI to national institutionalization. This raises new important research and practical issues.

The plenary sessions will be:

- SBI - from implementation to institutionalisation, dialogue
Sven Andreasson - Associate professor, Stockholm Centre for Dependence
Antoni Gual - Dr., Head of Alcohol Unit, Hospital Clinic, Barcelona
Kaija-Liisa Seppä - Professor, University of Tampere, chairman

- Implementation and organizational structure
Siw Carlffjord - Ph.D., Department of Medicine and Health Sciences, Linköping University
- Global Perspectives on Implementation of Screening and Brief Intervention
John Saunders – Professor, Faculty of Medicine, University of Sydney
- Risk drinking - at risk for what?
Deborah Dawson – Ph.D, National Advisory Council on Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism, Maryland, USA

Topics such as these will receive special attention at the conference:

- Theory of brief interventions- the essential mechanisms of successful response to EIBI and the necessary and/or sufficient conditions under which brief interventions are effective;
- Optimal forms of early identification in various medical and non-medical settings;
- Brief interventions and the Internet;
- Innovative ways of encouraging health professionals to incorporate EIBI in their routine work;
- Effective strategies for achieving integration of EIBI in government police;
- A global perspective of EIBI - application in parts of the world where EIBI has yet to make much impact;
- Family doctors: the pros and cons of screening and monitoring alcohol use disorders;
- EIBI from implementation to institutionalization;
- EIBI in mother care, child health care and the social sector.

These and other ground-breaking topics will receive special attention at the conference, in addition to updates on research and practice regarding EIBI in general and progress in meeting the aims of INEBRIA.

Scientific committee:

- Chair: Preben Bendtsen, professor of social medicine, Linköping University.
- Peter Anderson, public health consultant.
- Joan Colom, director of the Program on Substance Abuse, Government of Catalonia.
- Antoni Gual, head of Alcohol Unit, Hospital Clinic, Barcelona,

- Nick Heather, emeritus professor of Alcohol and Other Drugs Studies, School of Psychology and Sport Sciences, Northumbria University, Newcastle, England.
- Per Nilsen, associate professor of social medicine, Linköping University, Linköping, Sweden.
- Gunnel Hensing, professor of social medicine, Sahlgren Academy, University of Gothenburg.

Call for abstracts:

Individuals are invited to submit contributions for presentation at the 7th Annual Conference. Although relevant abstracts falling outside the conference topics are welcome, you are encouraged to choose one from them.

Forms of contributions: Please submit the abstract for your proposed contribution using the on-line form available at inebria website.

THE DEADLINE FOR SUBMISSION OF PROPOSALS HAS BEEN EXTENDED UNTIL THE 21st OF MAY.

If you have any questions about submitting an abstract, please contact Inebria (inebria@gencat.cat).

Pre-conference:

In addition to the main conference, there will be two pre-conference symposiums on the 8th of September. The first on the risk drink project (Riskbruksprojektet), the large scale national Swedish programme for implementation on EIBI in Sweden 2005-2001. The other on theories of implementation of new technologies and inventions in the health care sector Professor Preben Bendtsen and Associate Professor Per Nilsen and Ph.D. student Siw Carlffjord. This is a seminar where course credits can be offered.
